

1962

Modern CENTENARY COLLEGE Of Louisiana

Co-educational

•

Church-Related

•

Independent

Rotary Hall for men is completely air-conditioned.

COLLEGE STUDENTS ARE INTERESTED IN MODERN, GROWING INSTITUTIONS OF LEARNING.

The basic requirements of an excellent education are outstanding teachers, good buildings and equipment. On this page and the ones following you will find a glimpse of the superior opportunities available to you at Centenary College.

T. L. James Dormitory. Spacious suite accommodations for women.

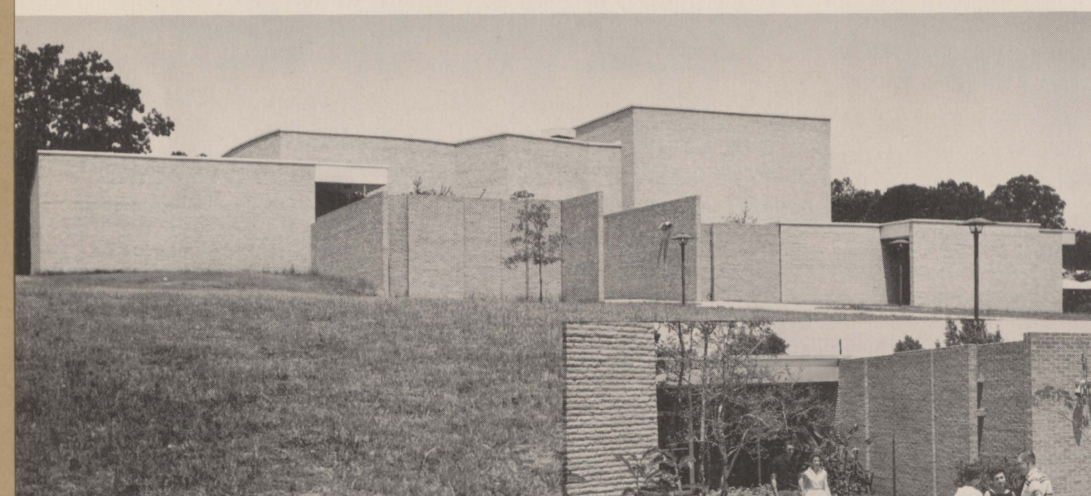

Moore Student Center, the hub of student activity.

The Science Building—a million dollar facility completed in 1950.

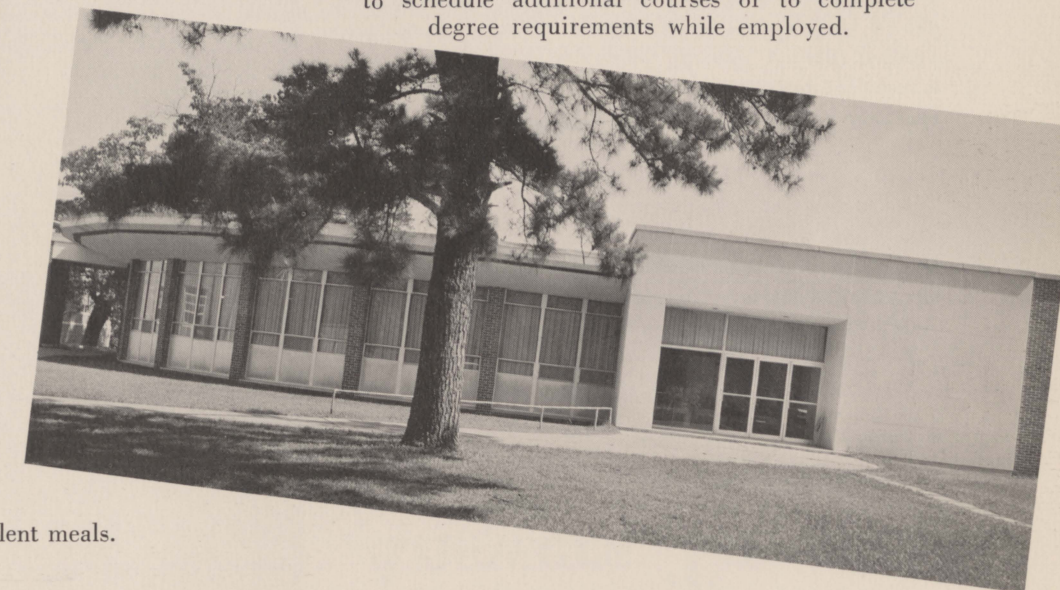

Evening School offers regular and part-time students opportunities to schedule additional courses or to complete degree requirements while employed.

The Marjorie Lyons Playhouse, one of America's outstanding campus theatre facilities.

A new cafeteria justly famous for excellent meals.

An Unusually Fine Faculty And Superior Educational Opportunity

As a young man or woman of today you stand at the threshold of an era offering greater opportunity than any other period in our history. If you are prepared by education and outlook to meet this challenge, you can advance in your chosen field and become a productive citizen in American society.

Centenary College through its program of liberal arts is dedicated to aiding you in making the most of your capabilities. You will be taught by a faculty, many of whom are outstanding in their field. Over 50 per cent of them hold the doctorate.

Centenary is a friendly college, understanding the outlook of young men and women. Classes are not large; they average 20. Our president, our deans and each member of our faculty take a warm, personal interest in the success of each student.

Our faculty has been drawn from the great institutions of learning throughout the world—from University of Michigan, University of Illinois, University of Wisconsin, University of Texas, University of Arkansas, SMU, University of Kansas, University of South Carolina, George Washington University, Columbia University, Washington & Lee, L'Université de Lyon (France), Cornell, Boston, Temple, University of Minnesota, University of North Carolina, Duke, University of Edinburgh (Scotland), University of Berlin, Princeton, University of Heidelberg (Germany), Ohio State, The University of Oklahoma, Northwestern University, The University of Florida, Tulane University, Stanford University, State University of Iowa, University of Southern California, and many others.

You will be proud to join the ranks of our distinguished graduates.

The Curricula

Major Fields of Specialization

A student who plans to become a candidate for a degree must by the beginning of his junior year select a field of specialization, commonly called a major. It may be selected in either a department or in a division. The selection must be approved by the head of the department or the division concerned, who will then appoint a faculty adviser appropriate to the choice.

A departmental major consists of courses within one department totaling from twenty-four to forty semester credit hours plus courses in one or more related subjects selected in conference with the head of the major department, and totaling from twelve to thirty semester credit hours.

The Divisions

The instructional departments of the College are grouped in three divisions: Humanities, Natural Sciences, and Social Sciences.

A divisional major consists of courses within one division totaling some seventy semester credit hours and including such subjects and courses as are prescribed under the divisional statements. The divisional major is designed for students who wish a broad background in a general area of knowledge rather than specialized training in a single subject. Students who plan to take graduate study in schools of law, education, commerce, medicine, engineering, or theology may find the divisional major suited to their needs. It is also recommended for those whose future plans do not require intensive study in a single limited area of knowledge.

Majors

Majors are offered in the three divisions and in the departments of Art, Biology, Business, Chemistry, Economics, Education, English, Geology, History and Government, Mathematics, Music, Physical Education, Psychology, Physics and Industrial Technology, Religion, Foreign Languages, and Speech and Dramatics.

Centenary's famous Choir is internationally known.

Art is a popular field of specialization at Centenary.

Centenary's school of music offers many opportunities.

College plays are a popular campus activity.

Fraternity and Sorority parties are campus highlights.

Freshman Days will always be remembered.

Science facilities are outstanding.

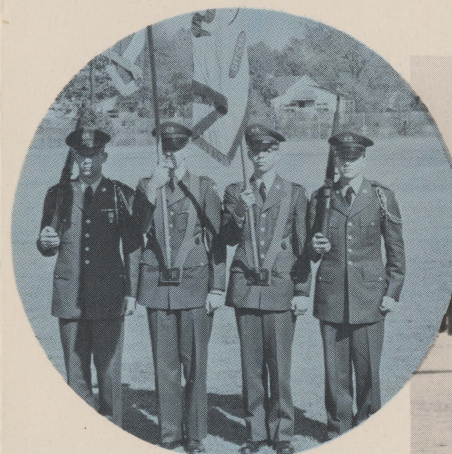

The "Coffee Break" is an institution.

The beautiful Brown Memorial Chapel is one of the most inspiring buildings on the campus.

Centenary stresses religion but not denominationalism. A Methodist-related college, Centenary urges students to "bring their religion to the campus" and to be active in their own churches. For many years students of practically all faiths and denominations have attended Centenary College.

An Army ROTC program is maintained at the college.

A campus Mardi Gras is celebrated each year.

Centenary "Gents" sports program continues to bring national recognition.

College spirit is kept high by cheerleaders . . . and lively pep squad.

Answers To Your Questions

How and where do I apply?

Students may apply by writing the Enrollment Counselor. The necessary forms for enrollment and instructions for their completion are mailed to the applicant.

What does it cost?

The total cost is $1140. The tuition of $500 per year includes all charges for classroom instruction, laboratory, registration, recording, library, student activity fees, four lyceum programs and subscriptions to the weekly paper and the college annual. Room and board is $640 for 9 months. Cost of books varies, the average being approximately $50 per year.

Entrance requirements?

Graduation from an accredited high school and grade average of "C" or better is the entrance requirement. Students are urged to take the National College Board Examinations.

Where do I live?

Students live in air-conditioned dormitories on the campus. Excellent meals are served in an air-conditioned cafeteria, which is only two or three minutes walking time from the dorms. One can have extra servings without additional cost.

What do students wear?

The student in college wears casual dress. You will not need additional clothes for your Freshman year in college.

What about part-time jobs?

The college has a person who handles part-time employment. Write to the Director of Job Placement, who has an office on the campus.

Do I need to bring a car?

One does not need a car because the campus is so arranged with walks and drives that there is no problem in getting from one class to another. Students are permitted to have cars, which may be parked on campus.

Is there a deferred payment plan?

The business office will arrange for payment to be made in three installments each semester if necessary.

What about transfers from other schools?

Credits are accepted from all fully accredited colleges and universities. A complete college transcript is required.

What about veterans?

Veterans should write the Director of Evening Division. This office has all the necessary information.

Are there any out-of-state fees?

Centenary College is privately endowed and does not charge an out-of-state fee.

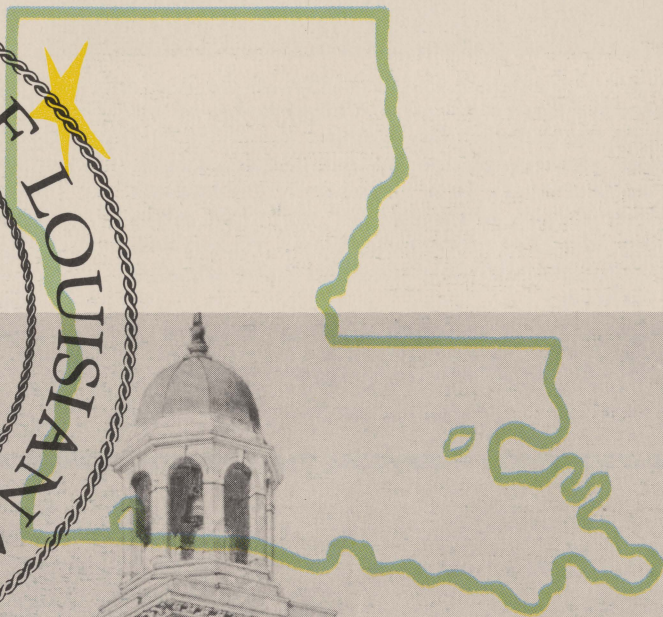

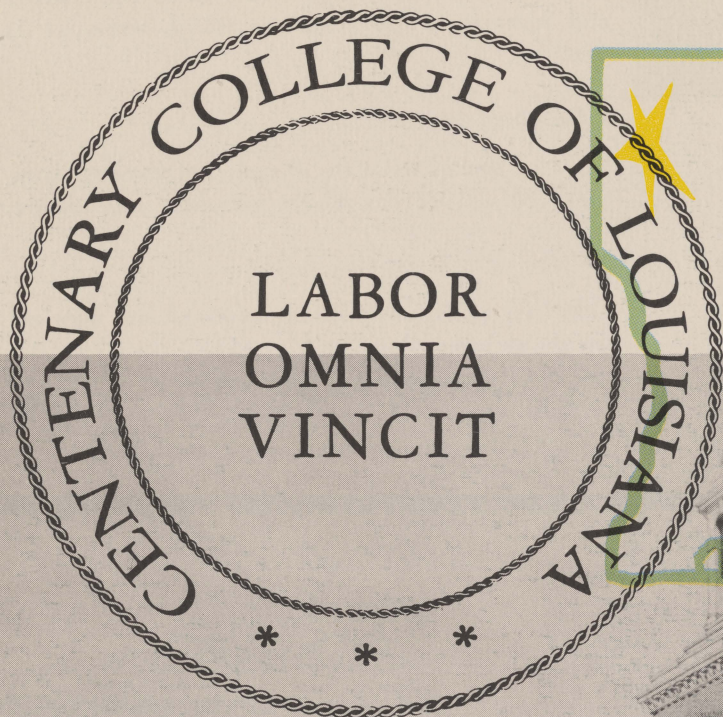

Enrollment Counselor

Centenary College

Shreveport, Louisiana

Phone UN 1-2431

Ce2
C7
1962

CENTENARY'S EXPANSION DURING THE LAST DECADE IS A SOURCE OF PRIDE TO STUDENTS AND ALUMNI.

The physical expansion of college facilities over the past decade provides a superior setting for obtaining an excellent education. Our students, alumni, and faculty are proud of the Science Building (1950), James Dormitory for women (1954), Rotary Hall expansion for men (1954), Brown Memorial Chapel (1955), Cafeteria (1957), Marjorie Lyons Playhouse (1957), Hardin Dormitory for women (1957), Moore Student Center (1958), and Sexton Dormitory for women (1960). All of these modern facilities are completely air-conditioned and conveniently located on forty wooded acres in metropolitan Shreveport.